Exclusively on the basis of the express consent of the data subject pursuant to Art. 6 para. 1 lit. a GDPR, the controller publishes one or more preselected photographs of the data subject, in which the data subject is unambiguously recognizable and identifiable, on one or more websites.

The publication serves to present the data controller or his company on the Internet for advertising purposes. The publication period and the target websites will be communicated to the data subject in the context of their declaration of consent.

At any time, consent can be revoked with future effect by notifying the controller. After receipt of the revocation, the image recordings will be deleted from the specified presences immediately without the need for a request from the data subject. The revocation of consent does not affect the legality of the processing carried out on the basis of the consent until the revocation.

Insofar as the target media for the publications are also social networks, the recordings may be stored on the network's servers in the USA after uploading for the purposes of network-wide presentation.
